POWER LINES TO BE EXTENDED UNDER NEW ORDER ISSUED

Believe Extensions in Rural Communities Will Be Facilitated

WILL AID THE FARMERS

"Best Opportunity Ever Made Available," Says The Department

By William B. Brown
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 3.—A new order intended to facilitate extension of power lines in rural communities, replacing General Order 27, today was issued by the Public Service Commission. The new order, it was said, was necessary because the one which it replaces has failed in its original purpose.

The order today is the result of a series of conferences between the State Council of Farm Organizations and the Pennsylvania Electric Association. Both have agreed, the Commission said, that General Order 27 was a failure. The former general order was issued by the Commission at the instance of former Governor Gifford Pinchot as part of his effort to extend rural electrification.

In a statement by the Department of Agriculture commenting on the order it was termed the "best opportunity ever made available" for securing electric light and power.

The chief objection to the former order, the Commission said, is that it contained no definite requirements as to rate forms. The new order requires the electric companies to establish the details and amount of the rates. These conditions are subject to the review by the Commission.

The Commission cites several instances of the way in which it is believed the new order will work out. An extension costing $625 is used as an illustration and the annual carrying charge of the work is placed at $144. If there are four customers on the line each would be required to guarantee a minimum monthly payment of $3 for which he could use power to that amount without additional cost.

It is pointed out in the order that the actual effectiveness of such a measure depends mainly upon the rates filed by the companies and the actual demand which can be ultimately developed in the rural area.

"Utilization of electric energy on the farm is a great problem," the order reads. "Its development depends upon educational efforts. Consequently the new order is not the final answer in the rural extension problem."

Authorities on electrification claim that to build line extensions to connect 50 per cent. of the farms in the arable parts of the State the power companies will have to spend approximately eighty million dollars. It is estimated that at least ten years will be required to complete such a program.

The new order becomes effective April 1 and requires that all electric companies in the State must file rates with the Commission on or before March 1.

Commissioners Fix Tax Rate For Bucks County

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 2.—In session Monday the County Commissioners fixed the tax rate for Bucks county for 1927 at six mills, the same amount as last year. Of this amount 1 1/2 mills is required for sinking fund purposes. The Commissioners also approved the budget for the year.

In spite of the fact that more bridges were built last year than in many years and that plans are now being prepared to erect four more bridges, and two others are under construction, the Commissioners were able to avoid burdening the taxpayers with an increased rate.

Politicians Look Upon Quiet Breakfast As Starting Point

RUMORS ARE STARTED

By George E. Holmes

(Copyright 1927 by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The politicians of the capital, ever eager and alert to glimpse the first robin of the political springtime, were convinced today that Calvin Coolidge's campaign for another term has been launched. A quiet breakfast which President Coolidge gave at the White House yesterday morning to a group of Texas, and which did not attract much attention was hailed today as the harbinger of his political intentions toward 1928.

Present at the White House breakfast table were seven Texas, headed by R. B. Creager, the Republican national committeeman, from the Lone Star State, and including Leonard Withington, secretary of the Republican State Committee; James W. Bass, of Austin, T. P. Lee, of Houston, Orville Bullington, of Wichita Falls, Roy Campbell of San Antonio, and F. L. Thompson. Bass and Campbell are Federal office holders.

John Duval Dodge Loses Fight To Share Big Estate

DETROIT, Feb. 3 (I.N.S.)—John Duval Dodge, son of the late John F. Dodge, today lost his fight in Circuit Court to share in the $700,000 estate of his half sister, Anna Margaret Dodge, who died in 1924, at the age of four.

Judge Harry J. Dinghamman decided in favor of Anna Margaret's mother, now Mrs. Matilda R. Dodge Wilson, that the brothers and sisters and half brothers and half sisters of Anna Margaret were not entitled to any share in her estate, real or personal. The probate court had held that the personal property, which comprised the bulk of the estate, should go to the mother, but that the brothers and sisters could share in the real estate, which amounted to about $12,000. Judge Dinghamman held that the real estate also must pass to the widow.

LEASES PROPERTY

Mrs. Esther Bruner has leased the property of Mrs. Mary Irwin, of Mill street, and will occupy the same about April 1st.

TO MAKE ALTERATIONS

J. Bernard, proprietor of the Bristol Bargain House, plans to make extensive alterations to his property in the near future.

EMILIE

Mr. and Mrs. Willis W. Wink were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis V. Cox.

WOMEN TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society in the Methodist Church this evening. It is requested that all members be present, in order to make plans for the group meeting to be held on February 10th.

We Introduce Today - Thomas H. Snelson

A NATIVE of England, who immigrated to the United States in the year 1889. Mr. Snelson was born in North Staffordshire, and upon arrival in the States made his home in Philadelphia for a period of 15 years.

At the end of that time he became interested in life insurance work, and this occupation took him over practically every portion of the United States. About 10 years ago he retired from actual service in the insurance company by which he was employed, but is still considered an employee.

Mr. Snelson came to Bristol about 1900 where he has lived ever since. He is now connected with the C. H. Bunting Motor Express Company, being a partner of Mr. Bunting for the past ten years.

The education acquired by Mr. Snelson has been obtained by his own efforts, as he was deprived of the privilege of attending public schools of any kind. Through his own per-

VETERAN RAILROAD EMPLOYEE RETIRES AFTER 44 CONSECUTIVE YEARS OF SERVICE FOR P. R. R.

Charles Holsneck, 156 Otter Street, Long in the Service And Witnessed Many Changes On the System—Held Various Positions On the Line—Started December 7, 1882

RETIRING from service after 44 consecutive years of employment with the Pennsylvania Railroad System, Charles Holsneck, of 156 Otter street, tells of the days when he first accepted employment with the company; of the conditions here and at a distance; and of the changing from the bed of the old line at Bristol to the new, during his period of work.

It was on December 7, 1882, that Mr. Holsneck first assumed his duties as a laborer at Plainfield, N. J., and after a few years in this phase of work was removed to Trenton in March of 1887, there to act as an assistant foreman of track. This brought from 15 to 18 men under his control. This change also meant that a three-mile section of four tracks would be under his jurisdiction.

On the seventh of July, 1899, this veteran of the road moved to Bristol, taking over section two of the old main line as section foreman, having in his care four tracks of three miles in length. In this territory there were two operating towers, one of automatic and one of hand control levers.

"People of this vicinity had good train service in those days, also," declared Mr. Holsneck. "There were in the list of eastbound and westbound trains making stops at Bristol, a total of 32 to 33."

The schedule for a train making a run from Bristol to Philadelphia in those days was about one and one-quarter hours for a local train. This time was thought to be exceptionally good, considering the manner in which work had to be carried on at that time, owing to the lack of advanced types of machinery, switches, etc.

The Bristol section under Mr. Holsneck's supervision was known then as Division C, with headquarters in Trenton, N. J. The company saw fit to transfer him to Division C, in Tacony, in April of 1905, where he was under the supervision of J. J. Rhodes, holding a similar position as previously. A few months later, W. F. French succeeded Mr. Rhodes.

Mr. Holsneck was injured in November, 1905, when he was hit in the head by a piece of flying metal, which had become loosened from a passing engine. This occurred late one afternoon, and the injured man did not gain consciousness until 10 a. m. the following day. It was discovered that

NAME EX-JUDGE SHULL AS DEPUTY ATTY GEN.

Formerly Judge of Perry-Juniata District Selected By Baldrige

THIRD TO BE NAMED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3 (I.N.S.)—Gov. John S. Fisher's office today announced the appointment of James W. Shull, of New Bloomfield, formerly a judge of the Perry-Juniata district, as a deputy attorney general. The appointment was made by Attorney General Thomas J. Baldrige, with the approval of Governor Fisher.

Shull has been assigned to look after the legal work of a number of State boards and commissions. Shull is the third deputy attorney general to have been appointed by Baldrige, among whom is Miss S. M. R. O'Hara, of Wilkes-Barre, the first woman to hold such an office in Pennsylvania. The other appointment was Thomas G. Taylor, of Greensburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 3 (I.N.S.)—Rep. Cleveland Donnell, of Venango County, is suffering from gallstones. It was learned here today. Although unable to leave his apartment, he was reported not in a critical condition.

he had a contusion of the brain, and six weeks elapsed before he was able to again assume his duties.

In the early part of 1907, a new kind of work was assigned to him as lumber inspector, he was enabled to travel over a large portion of the country, inspecting lumber and ties. "I traveled all over the Pennsylvania System," said Mr. Holsneck. "In this line of work I journeyed on every road and river in the South." He then mentioned the difference in the population of the western part of Pennsylvania then and today. "It was thinly populated then, and for miles we went through many forests and uninhabited places, away from the larger cities."

Being reappointed as section foreman in April, 1908, he was assigned to work at Crofton on what was known as Section 30. This change was due to the lumber panic at that time, when the services of 96 men were dispensed with. Then later, in 1909, D. S. Newhall, at that time purchasing agent with headquarters at Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, sent the Bristol man out again as a lumber inspector. In 1910 he was stationed at Tuvana, Va., remaining in the Old Dominion State until called to Pennsylvania as track foreman on the old main line through Bristol.

The opening of the new line was looked forward to, and on November 26, 1911, the opening of the two westbound tracks took place; and the two eastbound tracks were opened to traffic the following day. Mr. Holsneck was then privileged to be in charge of both the old and the new lines as track foreman, until relieved of the former in 1916.

Being given a position in the Bristol yards in March, 1919, he remained there at his work until last year, retiring on the first day of December.

"The largest wreck I can recall seeing was that of the Chicago Limited, westbound. It was wrecked on the old line here in '98, at the water station. A work-train had gone off a siding, and the Limited crashed into it. Fortunately no fatalities occurred, but four cars were wrecked, and two tracks were torn up for about three hundred feet; as well as a part of the third track. The ripping up of the ties and rails, and the shaking up of the passengers caused a great deal of excitement and inconvenience for a time," this veteran of the road concluded.

GAMBLE PARTY HAS GREAT REPUTATION

Each Artist Selected for His Individual Merit And Artistic Value

STUDIED IN EUROPE

On the evening of March 8th the Gamble Concert Party will appear here under auspices of students of the Bristol Public Schools. The affair will be held in the new auditorium, Wilson avenue and Garfield street and it will be given for the benefit of the School Welfare Fund.

The Welfare Fund is used to aid in defraying the expenses of the dental clinic and other charitable work done by the students. Many children of school age are bought clothing, shoes and wearing apparel which is paid for out of the School Welfare Fund. This is done so that these children, when found to be worthy cases of charity, may be able to attend regular sessions of the schools.

The Gamble Concert Party has a reputation which not only covers this country but spreads abroad, as well. It is a musical group hard to surpass.

The Ernest Gamble Concert Party was formed in the belief that there is always a sufficient number of discriminating people, interested in hearing good music delightfully and attractively presented, to support a high-class and expensive attraction. The fact, that this is the twentieth consecutive and successful season, is eloquent testimony that The Gamble Party is a great favorite with music lovers. Its work lies on a lofty plane of artistic endeavor its selections are from the standard classics, its elaborately arranged programs stimulate its listeners. The artists of the Party are more than "entertainers," they are educators, and their concerts uplift and cultivate a taste for better things, and that, too without performing over the heads of their audience.

This is why talent of this calibre is so much more valuable to a community than the average concert company. The Gamble concerts make an audience grow individually and collectively. Each member of the Party is chosen for his individual merit and for his artistic value to the program as a whole. The program is shared equally, there being no star and no inferior supporting members. Each artist is the product of the greatest European masters.

Mr. Snelson, who is leader of the local Presbyterian Church choir, also mentioned the fact that greater interest is being manifest in music in Bristol, the selections being of a better class. He takes a keen delight in vocal music, and also enjoys playing the piano.

WHAT PAUL ALLEN SAYS ABOUT FIREMEN

Special Writer in the Evening Graphic Writes About The Volunteers

THING OF PAST, HE SAYS

Writing in the Evening Graphic, New York, Paul Allen in his special column "What It's All About," has the following to say under date of February 1st:

A MEDAL SHOULD BE AWARDED to the Midland Township of New Jersey for having the courage to combat the volunteer fire companies in that locality. Local volunteer companies usually are so strongly entrenched that they can do anything they want, short of murder, and no one dare say anything about it. They are a glaring example of a good thing gone wrong.

VOLUNTEER FIRE ORGANIZATIONS are all right only in communities too small for anything else. When a town reaches a population of 5,000 or more it should seriously consider getting professional fire fighters on the job. One company of eight or ten trained men can do more than a mob of half-trained though enthusiastic citizens. Volunteer fire companies are as much out of date as are armies of minute men.

PEOPLE WHO LIVE IN GLASS houses should not throw stones. So it might be said that a columnist who lives in a city protected by competent professional firemen should not throw aspersions. I have spent enough time in small communities, however, to know a few facts about this situation that need telling. I have seen volunteers when a house was being gutted by flames fumble with hose connections they did not know how to handle. I have read of several cases where volunteers have set buildings afire for the purpose of impressing the community with their importance. I have known of volunteers who wanted $25,000 for a new piece of apparatus to take a perfectly good motor truck and dash it about in the hope of ruining its efficiency.

WORSE THAN THAT, I HAVE slept in villages where it is common to be awakened two or three times a week by the shrieking blast of a fire siren. These fireless whistles are geared particularly loud to wake up the tight sleepers among the volunteers and draw out 150 or 200 sleepy citizens to extinguish a blaze in a chicken coop. Ten or twelve thousand people are awakened. Those who are sick are disturbed. Babies shriek with fear. Dogs for miles around start howling. And yet we pride ourselves on efficiency in America.

REAL EFFICIENCY WOULD PUT an end to that. The money now spent on superfluous hose carts, engines and buildings should be devoted to a compact organization ready to respond immediately at the ringing of a gong in the fire house. I guarantee that fires would be put out more quickly, less expensively and certainly with a lot less hullabaloo. Country folks have reason to laugh at a great many silly things done by the city. This is one case in which the laugh can be returned with interest.

NATIONAL W. C. T. U. IN 3-DAY CONFERENCE

Focus Attention On the Observance of The Law

BIG BANQUET IS HELD

By M. A. Lowmes

During the recent three-day conference of the National W. C. T. U. workers in Washington, they advanced their aims which were to focus attention on law observance; to study the problems of law enforcement; and to promote legislation to that end.

The assistant attorney general said, "We must have a Federal, State and local officials, only such individuals as will not use the prohibition amendment for their own personal advancement, but will uphold the law in its spirit as well as its letter."

"Prohibition is like a dyke, holding back the waves of lawlessness, and it will endure because it is founded on the Constitution of the United States. The Supreme Court has given 41 decisions in its favor."

Prominent men in Congress and Senate, and women in social life and in political affairs discussed the improvement made in all industrial and home life.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, said: "Certain defeat faces any wet presidential candidate in 1928. No political party dares to go before the people in 1928 on a wet platform."

There was a banquet tendered the dry Senators and Representatives by the women of their states.

DAILY NEWS LETTER

By International News Service

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—"Business life in Detroit is more intense than in any other city in America," Rev. Lynn Harold Hough, pastor of Central Methodist Church, told Detroit New Century Club members. "The bread-and-butter problem here makes such great demands on the nervous energy of the bread winner of the family that nervous breakdowns among men are common," he said. "This frequency of nervous breakdowns among men of my parish is one of the most serious things with which I have to deal. Men work under great pressure to give the women a chance to be civilized. A tremendous moral responsibility rests on the women to keep our civilization going and to maintain high standards. Only by reading great books can civilization be preserved."

"Many uncivilized persons are walking about, well dressed and well groomed. It doesn't take any more intelligence to read good books than to be well dressed. I am not pleading for a society of frowsy blue stockings. There is not an untidy woman in the world per se. Books are human experience distilled. Is there a woman who is not interested in human experience?"

"The companionship of books at the fireside is a moral responsibility for getting civilized. The civilized people are those taking a long view down the ages, a view that only books can give. 'The millennium could be materialized, reading of masterpieces a prison offense, and prohibiting anyone from taking the United States constitution seriously. We are so constituted that we have an urge to do that which is forbidden.'"

TWO START SUITS FOR DIVORCES; ONE SUES FOR DAMAGES

Eunice Clark McDonnell, Of New Hope, Enters Action Against Husband

HE WANTS A DIVORCE

William H. Stradling, of Morrisville, Files Suit For Separation

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 3.—Two new divorce suits have been started in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county and another damage suit brought.

Charging cruel and barbarous treatment, Eunice Clark McDonnell, of New Hope, is suing her husband, Henry Thomas McDonnell, of New Hope, for divorce. Suit was brought by Webster S. Achey, of Doylestown. Mrs. McDonnell was married on June 26, 1918, at Glen Falls, N. Y. She avers in the libel filed that her husband on January 25, 1927, struck her with his fists across both eyes, knocking her against a radiator that cut her head. Other cruel treatment is outlined in the libel.

William H. Stradling, of Morrisville, has filed a divorce suit against his wife, Carey L. Stradling, of Paoli, charging desertion. They were married July 13, 1921. Suit was brought by Lewis R. Bond, of Morrisville.

Frank Sucharski, of Chalfont, is asking $1000 damages from John Hohlman, of New Britain, in a suit started in the Court of Common Pleas. The plaintiff avers that on September 25, 1926, while he was in a wagon on a state highway near Chalfont, the automobile of John Hohlman crashed into the rear of the wagon, resulting in personal injuries and damage to the wagon. It is averred the crash came while Hohlman failed to have his car under control. Suit was started by Bunting & Satterthwaite, Doylestown.

"GYM" CLASS TO MEET

Tonight the "gym" class of the Fathers' Association will meet in the gymnasium at eight o'clock. able to "date" the co-eds of that institution, the fair ladies have decided following an exhortation by Father Louis Weitzman, S. J., head of the sociological department.

Father Weitzman spoke his opinions in chapel in answer to undergraduate requests that the prohibition question be discussed. Bluntly and forcibly he denounced the "moral impoverishment of youth in general." He urged those who must drink to be at least "gentleman enough not to carry a flask while escorting young ladies."

His remarks made such an impression on the co-eds that a general meeting was called at which the girls decided to bar all flask-carrying escorts.

Some of the leaders of the movement were Anna Wagoner, sophomore; Margaret Winthrop, freshman; Louise De Mattia and Florence Van Eeckhoutte.

"We of the faculty of your university," said Father Weitzman, "are not aloof academicians. It would be futile for us to be ostriches and hide our heads in the sand and then imagine that there is no liquor problem for youth today? We might say that there is no liquor problem at this university because it has no campus. For the problem breathes life since youth of today is drinking and you gentlemen are representative, I hope, of the best of your class."

"Be the auditors of your soul and remember that obedience to a law even to such an unpopular law as that which gives us prohibition, is more necessary to human civilization than steam or petrol."

"Leave liquor alone until you are at least 25 years old, in order that you may be saved from becoming slaves to a habit which pulls thousands into the gutter every day. Yes, be teetotalers."

Her Christmas Prayer
MARION R. REAGAN

IT WAS cold along the Seine that Christmas Eve. There was a thin rain, half snow, and a nasty, penetrating wind coming up from the river that sent chills trembling down one's back.

Little Juliette Carot blew her breath against her hands to warm them and pulled her ragged little coat more tightly about her. She was the sole support of a family of four—this little, shivering tot, who stood always before the door of Notre Dame selling holy cards and medals to people as they passed in or out of the church.

Her mother was very ill and the three other children of the family—two younger than Juliette—were too little to do any kind of work. How she would have loved to bring home something very special for them this Christmas!

On her way to the church this evening she had stopped to look in at the window of a patisserie shop and her heart was taken with a great cake in the center—all white with dots of large red cherries around the sides. The price was ten francs. She took out her little worn purse and counted—two francs, five sous. Slowly she closed the purse and put it back in her pocket. The cake was out of the question. It would have to be a loaf of bread only.

All evening she had stood in front of the church, but had made almost nothing. Great numbers of people were coming to the midnight mass, but they all passed by little Juliette with only an annoyed "Non, non, non!" A little later there was almost nobody coming. She could hear the organ playing. Mass had begun.

She would have hurried home but her feet were numb with the cold.

Slipped Quietly Into a Seat of the Large Church.

Besides, she thought, she really ought to go in and say a little prayer for her mother.

She opened the huge door of the cathedral, slipped quietly into a seat of the large church and prayed fervently for her mother and little sisters; prayed, too, that she might, somehow, be able to buy them a cake for Christmas!

The heat of the church after the intense cold outside made her drowsy. She went fast to sleep and her head fell heavily against the shoulder of a man sitting next to her.

The man was an American. He was at first annoyed when he saw the little towseled head with its dirty cap against his coat-sleeve, but on second glance at the pathetic little figure he was overcome with genuine emotion. "Poor little devil," he thought, "wonder what's been your short history and what will it be in the future." He saw in her dirty little hands the strings of medals and the box of holy cards she had been trying to sell. He reached into his pocket, pulled out two crisp 1,000-franc notes, folded them carefully and placed them on top of the cards.

Almost everyone had left the church when Juliette awakened. Mass was over; all the candles on the altar had been extinguished, the lights of the church were being put out. Juliette rubbed her eyes drowsily and with a start counted her medals to see that no one had taken any while she slept. They were all quite safe. She next turned to her box of cards and her eyes became two large moons. "Two thousand francs—two thousand francs!" She couldn't believe it. It was a miracle! Hadn't she prayed for money to buy her people a Christmas gift? She knelt down again, said a fervent prayer in thanksgiving; then gathered all her things together and ran quickly from the church—past the confiserie shop. It was closed, of course, but the white cake was still in the window. Tomorrow morning she would go there early and buy it—buy every good thing in the shop. And still there would be enough left to buy them all clothes in the after-Christmas sales. She leaped joyously in the air. She did not feel the cold now.

"Merry Christmas," she called to an old lady who passed her. "Merry Christmas to the whole world!"

Poles Careful Christmas Eve

The Poles have many superstitions in connection with Christmas. They believe that what they do on Christmas Eve they will do all the year around, and therefore they conduct themselves with that prospect in view.

State News

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—Governor John S. Fisher has told his cabinet members that the question of changes in personnel of the various departments and bureaus will not be considered until the departments are running along smoothly under the new administration. As has been the case in past administration, it is probable that the department heads will be asked to submit lists of subordinates to the Governor's office for scrutiny. Bureau chiefs and others serving in executive capacities brought here during the Pinchot administration will be displaced in many instances, it is expected.

The State Tax Commission will be ready with its report to the 1927 Legislature early in February, officers of the commission have indicated.

The number of women voters enrolled last year showed a great increase over the number enrolled in 1925, while the number of men enrolled showed a falling off as between the records of the two years in Pennsylvania, according to an analysis made in the Pennsylvania Bulletin, the official organ of the League of Women Voters.

James M. Auter, Civil War veteran and messenger at the executive office since 1895, has been retained by Governor Fisher. Auter first was named Berman P. Miller, Senate Librarian, as a legislative officer has seen fourteen Pennsylvania governors inaugurated. He has been present at the inauguration of every governor under the constitution of 1873. As a boy he saw some governors sworn in under the preceding constitution. He has been connected with the Senate for more than half a century.

Former Governor Gifford Pinchot, at his convenience, will have a portrait painted to be placed in the gubernatorial gallery, one of the centers of interest for visitors on the Hill. The collection of portraits begins with Penn and contains all Pennsylvania governors' portraits.

A Ford automobile belonging to the Keystone Telephone Company caught fire on Trenton avenue, on Wednesday. The William Penn Fire Company was summoned, and the blaze extinguished. At the time the machine became ignited, the driver was working at the top of one of the company's poles.

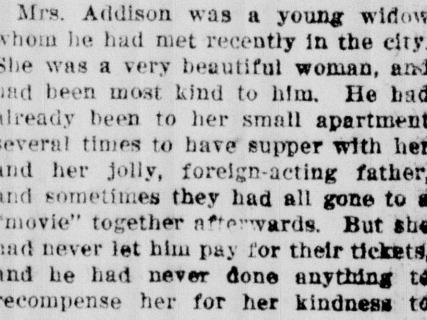

About twenty members of the Order of the Golden Scepter Lodge, of Croydon, Pa., attended the annual banquet of the order, which was held on Saturday evening in Philadelphia on Broad street and Montgomery avenue.

IT WAS his first Christmas in the city. He could not afford to go home, nor could he have gone if he had had the money. He was clerk in a store, and had to work Christmas Eve till ten o'clock. The last train for his home town left at three in the afternoon. And there was no use going up on Christmas day for just an hour; five hours each way on the train, total fare over ten dollars, for one hour at home; one-third of a week's pay! No, that would be extravagance. So he had sent his mother two pink silk nightgowns as a solace for his first absence from home on Christmas day. He thought the nightgowns would delight her; she had never had a silk one, and from the way that silk ones were displayed in the city shops, he was sure they were the thing to wear. The night gowns he had sent her, the ties for his brothers, had completely emptied his pockets. He always had been generous, but he enjoyed depriving himself for the happiness of others. His generosity this time, however, had gone too far, for he had nothing left with which to buy a gift for Mrs. Addison.

Mrs. Addison was a young widow whom he had met recently in the city. She was a very beautiful woman, and had been most kind to him. He had already been to her small apartment several times to have supper with her and her jolly, foreign-acting father, and sometimes they had all gone to a "movie" together afterwards. But she had never let him pay for their tickets, and he had never done anything to recompense her for her kindness to him.

This modern age puts Camels first

THIS age tried Camels and placed them first. And it was no half-way verdict. Never in the history of smoking was a cigarette given a leadership like Camel has today.

To find why Camels are the favorite, just try them. You will find the perfect fragrance and taste of choice tobaccos, rarely blended. You will experience a mellow mildness that gives endless cigarette enjoyment!

For the choice of the modern age—
"Have a Camel!"

him. "Your companionship is all we want, dad and I," is what she always said, and he believed her. But he really wanted to take her something nice for Christmas. If only he had kept one of the nightgowns he had sent his mother. But no, that would have been too pretentious and too personal. He must give her something very beautiful, to be sure, but nothing extravagant, even if he could. She wouldn't like that. What was he to do?

For lunch the day before Christmas he had a sandwich and a soda at a drug store. That left him 20 minutes to gaze longingly in the shop windows on the avenue. Such pretty things, he thought he had never seen before—jewelry, clothing, novelties for the delight of women. They seemed just made for Mrs. Addison. But a dollar was all the money he could spare, and what could you get for that? The boudoir lamp he wanted cost five dollars, the desk set eight; and even a decent box of candy would be two dollars and a half.

The jeweler's clock warned him he must get back to work, so wearily he turned the corner and hurried to his own store to so grudgingly dole out to others the things he could not buy himself—for her.

That night he returned to his room empty-handed and mournful. But his fatigue was so great, sleep soon quieted his sorrow.

It was late Christmas morning when he awoke, but there was still time to shift himself up and get to Mrs. Addison's for breakfast at eleven. How original of her to invite him for Christmas breakfast, and at eleven, too! He appreciated those extra hours of sleep. She certainly was a dear.

Breakfast at eleven! Why, that meant he would not have to eat again till night, and then just a simple supper. And THAT meant he saved the price of a Christmas dinner—another dollar! But two dollars—what could he do with that, and all the stores closed? His enthusiasm waned as quickly as it came. And then, suddenly, his eyes saw the beautiful flowers he was watering. They were paper white narcissus he had bought a few weeks before at the "five and ten." The four bulbs and the bowl had cost only a quarter, and here they were with two beautiful sprays of fragrant bloom and one fast bud just ready to break its covering. Their fragrance filled the room. Their beauty would grace any home—yes, even hers. His Christmas shopping problem was solved. He would buy some candy at the corner drug store, and give it with the flowers he had grown himself. Oh, what a jolly breakfast party they would have!

Good Elimination Is Essential to Good Health.

THE kidneys are the blood filters. If they fail to function properly there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches, headaches, and dizziness are symptoms of this condition. Further evidence of improper kidney function is often found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. Sold by Auction

Morganatic marriages of royalty are freely discussed, but perhaps the most curious stories are about the auctioning of wives which took place as recently as 90 years ago. According to the Annual Register the inhabitants of Carlisle witnessed the sale of a wife by her husband, Joseph Thompson, in 1832. A bellman was sent round to give notice of the sale, which attracted the attention of thousands. The woman stood on a large oak chair with a rope or halter of straw round her neck, and Thompson addressed the crowd.

After an hour or two she was purchased by a pensioner for the sum of 20 shillings and a Newfoundland dog!—London Times.

Dagger Pledge of Fidelity

When a Druse woman marries she presents her husband with a dagger, over which she has knitted with her own hands a red woolen cover, enclosing it completely like a sewed-up purse. The dagger is a symbol of the death penalty she must pay if she is unfaithful; while the knitted, sewed-up cover is the symbol of the law, by which her husband himself must not unsheath the knife unless all her own male relatives are dead, but must return it and her to her father or brothers, who pronounce and execute the sentence.—Asia Magazine.

LEWISTOWN.—The Sentinel, Milton county's only daily newspaper, has filed a petition for a court order, directing the county commissioners to permit local taxpayers, including representatives of the public press, to have access to the minutes of the county board meetings.

HAZLETON.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company is putting down its rails in winter rather than summer, because engineers declare in the cold weather the rails stay where they are placed and do not buckle as easily as when they are laid in summer. More available workmen in winter than in summer was another reason given for the plan.
